

Coatings World

March 2009

NETZSCH PROMOTES HILL TO ADVISORY ROLE

Netzsch Fine Particle Technology LLC has appointed John Hill application and process advisor. In his new position, Hill will work closely with customers in a variety of industries to solve their most difficult challenges in implementing nanotechnology. He will also provide process support for the regional sales team and oversee the customer research and development laboratory. Hill joined Netzsch in 1996 and helped manage the laboratory, where he conducted feasibility and scalability trials for the company's equipment. He most recently served as sales manager for the Mid-Atlantic region.